Regnart Creek Trail Project Wins Project of the Year Award

CUPERTINO, CA – The City of Cupertino is proud to announce that the City’s Regnart Creek Trail Project has been awarded Project of the Year by the American Public Works Association (APWA) Silicon Valley Chapter. The Regnart Creek Trail Project won the award in the project category of transportation projects between $2 million and $5 million.

“I appreciate the work and input of the community over the years regarding this project,” said Mayor Darcy Paul. “While public process is not as much about affirmation as it is about engagement, I know that everyone involved here agrees that our work together has had positive community-building effects from our many conversations and efforts.”

The 0.8-mile-long trail provides an off-street pedestrian and bicycle connection between Creekside Park, Wilson Park, local neighborhoods, Cupertino City Hall, and the Cupertino Library. In addition to connecting those locations, the Regnart Creek Trail serves as one segment of a longer bicycle connection between Monta Vista High School and Cupertino High School, which includes the recently completed separated bike lanes along McClellan Road and Pacifica Drive.

“This project has been a priority for the City and our community for many years,” said City Manager Jim Throop. “We are pleased to accept this award that recognizes the outstanding work our Public Works Department staff has put into providing a safe, accessible, and connected trail for our residents to enjoy.”

Completion of the Regnart Creek Trail is the result of years of successful collaboration between the City’s Public Works Department and Santa Clara Valley Water District, in addition to the ongoing leadership and support from the Cupertino City Council, Bicycle Pedestrian Commission, and the community. The trail is expected to open this fall. Find project details on cupertino.org/regnartcreektrail.
